Why Add Nutrition?

The numbers don't lie — nutrition services are the highest-margin add-on for personal trainers.

40–60%	3x	$75–$150
More Revenue per Client	Higher Client Retention Rate	Average Monthly Nutrition Add-On

The reality: Clients who only train with you stay an average of 4.2 months. Clients who also receive nutrition coaching stay an average of 14 months. That's $8,400+ in additional lifetime revenue per client at $75/month.

Revenue Comparison: Training Only vs. Training + Nutrition

A trainer with 20 clients charging $200/month for training earns $4,000/month. Adding a $100/month nutrition service to just 10 of those clients adds $1,000/month — a 25% revenue increase with minimal extra time. Over a year, that's $12,000 in new revenue.

Time Investment is Minimal

With the right tools, creating a personalized meal plan takes 10–15 minutes per client. That means 10 nutrition clients costs you about 2.5 hours per week for an extra $1,000/month. Your hourly rate for nutrition work? $400/hr.

Better Results = Better Testimonials

Clients who follow a training AND nutrition plan see 2x faster progress. Faster results mean happier clients, better before/after photos, and more referrals. Nutrition is your secret weapon for word-of-mouth growth.

The 48-Hour Launch Plan

Follow this hour-by-hour checklist to go from zero to signed nutrition client in two days.

1 Day 1: Build Your Foundation (Hours 1–8)

Hour 1 Set up your meal planning platform. Create your EvoFitMeals account, upload your logo, and configure your trainer profile. Set your timezone and notification preferences.

Hour 2 Create your first template meal plan. Build a 7-day plan for your most common client type (e.g., fat loss, 1,800 cal). This becomes your starting template for all future clients.

Hour 3 Build 2 more template plans. Create plans for different goals: muscle gain (2,500 cal) and maintenance (2,100 cal). Three templates cover 80% of new clients.

Hour 4-5 Price your nutrition service. Review the pricing models on page 5. Choose your structure, set your rates, and write up a simple one-page service description.

Hour 6-7 Draft your client intake form. Use the template on page 4. Customize it with your branding. Set up a digital version (Google Forms or your platform's built-in form).

Hour 8 Write your welcome email. Use the template on page 6. Personalize the tone to match your brand. Set it up as a template you can reuse.

2 Day 2: Launch & Sign Your First Client (Hours 9–16)

Hour 9 Announce your new service. Post on Instagram/social media: "Exciting news — I'm now offering personalized nutrition coaching! DM me 'NUTRITION' for details."

Hour 10 Text your top 5 current clients. Personal message: "Hey [name], I just launched nutrition coaching — you'd be perfect for it. Want me to put together a custom meal plan for you?"

Hour 11 Send your first offer. To every interested client, send: your service description, pricing, and a link to your intake form. Create urgency: "First 3 clients get 20% off the first month."

Hour 12-14 Customize and deliver the first plan. Once a client signs up, use their intake form to customize one of your templates. Deliver within 24 hours to exceed expectations.

Hour 15-16 Follow up and collect feedback. Check in: "How does the plan look? Any questions?" Use their response to refine. Ask for a testimonial after Week 1.

First 30 Days Playbook

Follow this week-by-week plan to deliver results and lock in long-term clients.

WEEK 1 — BASELINE ASSESSMENT

Understand Where They Are

- Review completed intake form and identify key dietary patterns
- Calculate TDEE and set macro targets based on their goal
- Build and deliver their first personalized 7-day meal plan
- Include a grocery list and 2–3 meal prep suggestions
- Schedule a 15-minute kickoff call to walk through the plan
- Ask them to log meals for 3 days so you can see real eating habits

WEEK 2 — FIRST PLAN DELIVERED & ACTIVE

Build the Habit

- Check in via text/message: "How's the first week going? Any recipes you loved?"
- Review their food log and identify any compliance issues
- Make small adjustments: swap disliked meals, adjust portion sizes
- Deliver Week 2 plan with 2–3 new recipes to keep it fresh
- Share one quick nutrition tip relevant to their goal (e.g., protein timing)
- Celebrate any early wins — even small ones ("Great job hitting protein 5/7 days!")

WEEK 3 — CHECK-IN & ADJUST

Refine and Optimize

- Conduct a formal check-in: weight, measurements, energy, sleep, hunger levels
- Adjust macros if needed (e.g., increase carbs on training days)
- Address any challenges: dining out, social events, cravings
- Provide a "dining out cheat sheet" for their favorite restaurants
- Deliver Week 3 plan with increased variety based on feedback
- Ask: "What's been the hardest part?" — solve it proactively

WEEK 4 — PROGRESS REVIEW & UPSELL

Show Results, Secure Retention

- Full progress review: compare Week 1 vs. Week 4 metrics
- Create a visual progress summary (before/after stats, compliance %)
- Deliver Month 2 plan with new recipes and any macro adjustments
- Present continuation options: "Based on your progress, here's what Month 2 looks like"

- Ask for a testimonial: "Would you mind sharing a quick quote about your experience?"
- Offer a referral incentive: "Know a friend who'd benefit? They get 10% off, you get a free week"

The Retention Secret

Clients don't leave because of bad plans — they leave because they feel forgotten. The check-ins in this playbook are more important than the plans themselves. A 30-second "How's it going?" text on Wednesday costs you nothing and keeps clients for months longer.

What trainers are saying:

"I went from zero nutrition clients to 15 in my first month. The platform paid for itself on Day 1. My clients love the plans and I spend less than 3 hours a week on it."
